

Mogra

Moti

MOGRA · JASMINE, STRUNG AS BUDS

MOTI · PEARL

One strand being made, from dawn to night: bud by bud, pearl by pearl, until the knot is tied and every flower has opened.

DEMO COUPLE

Rohan Malhotra & Anaya Kapoor

WEDDING

What Mogra & Moti is

Recognisable by

The strand — one champagne thread of alternating pearls and closed mogra buds, lying across cotton paper in raking morning light — and two tall names held apart by that thread.

Signature opening

The light finds their names. Light rakes across a blind-debossed card; a pearl rolls in and stops; its thread pulls taut; the strand is strung bead by bead; the names are uncovered by the same light. Touch the pearl and the thread is pulled away.

Signature material

Nacre, the lustre of pearl: a soft travelling highlight with blush and sage overtones. It replaces gold as the luxury cue and appears only in highlights.

Signature transition

The Draw. A thread tightens and draws the next scene up like a new sheet of paper, beads riding along. Used three times: into Celebrations, into the reply, into the closing knot.

Signature type

No ampersand. Rohan high and left, Anaya low and right, in condensed Imbue at masthead scale, with the thread running through the gap. Three appearances only.

Signature image

Graded to the hour, bleeding off one edge, settling into place. Every photo matches its chapter's light, touches one screen edge (bar a few declared full-screen moments), and opens from that edge.

Indian, not "Indian wedding"

Mogra strung as buds that bloom at night, the mangalsutra's thread, the gathbandhan knot, chikankari shadow work, real henna colour, Devanagari chapter numerals, santoor. No mandalas, paisleys, red-and-gold or palace silhouettes.

Premium, not template

A composition per scene, one consistent light, big scale contrast, three elements per screen, choreography with causes, written copy, no cards, pills or icons, and a first screen that holds 60 fps.

Hierarchy at 390 px

Moment → fact → action → detail. One image or the names, one large fact, one action in the thumb zone, then small grouped details. Two tiny fixed controls only.

Remembered

"The light found their names, a pearl rolled across the card, and by the end every flower had opened." The last frame: a knotted strand in full bloom under one lamp.

The page is one day

The strip is the phone page to scale (about 18 screens). The ground follows the clock from dawn to night; the gold marks are the three Draws. The mogra opens as the page goes on.

	୦୧	Opening	Dawn · light, pearl, strand, names · tap
	୦୨	Welcome	Morning · names held by the thread, hands stringing mogra
	୦୩	Our Story	Midday · three magazine spreads, overlapping photographs
		THE DRAW
	୦୪	Celebrations	Afternoon · Mehendi bleeds left, Sangeet stands vertical, the Wedding is centred on a knot, Reception goes full-bleed night
	୦୫	Venue	Dusk · a letterbox band opens to the full frame
	୦୬	Gallery	Night · a film strip you swipe
		THE DRAW
	୦୭	RSVP	Night · a lamp-lit reply card; saying yes adds a pearl
		THE DRAW
	୦୮	Closing	Late night · the knot, full bloom, the music settles

Reduced motion keeps every scene and transition, but nothing is pinned or scrubbed and durations drop to about a third.

Every colour comes from a material

No wedding palette was consulted. Gold becomes readable text only at night; blush and sage live inside pearls and flowers, never as fills.

Tall and narrow, like strands

Three families, each with a width axis. Imbue was chosen over Bodoni Moda after rendering both at 390 px: at 132 px it reads as a masthead, while Bodoni Moda has to drop to 86 px and looks like a standard wedding card.

०४ CELEBRATIONS

Never: script faces, an ampersand between the names, fake italics, letter-by-letter animation, tracking on Devanagari, more than three sizes on one screen.

Placeholder copy shown here is demo content from the data file, flagged for replacement.

The light finds their names

Each beat has one cause. The chart is drawn to scale; ink bars are the full film, gold bars the reduced-motion cut.

FRAMES · NORMAL MOTION · 390 × 844

Schematic frames: they fix layout, timing and cause. Textures, pearls and flowers will be photographed material, not these shapes.

0.0 s · Dark

A warm near-black. The first light is about to reach the corner.

1.5 s · Relief

Raking light lifts the blind-debossed R·A out of the paper. No ink.

2.5 s · Pearl

One pearl rolls in from the right, highlight fixed to the light, slowing to rest.

3.2 s · Tension

Its stop pulls the thread taut, edge to edge, through the pearl.

4.0 s · Strand

Tension draws pearls and closed buds along the thread, bead by bead.

4.8 s · Names

A brighter band of light sweeps along the thread and sets the names on either side of it.

5.6 s · Breeze

Sheer chanderi drifts over the corner; two buds tumble past, out of focus.

6.5 s · Ready

The date, then an object to touch. Only the pearl's highlight moves.

FRAMES · AFTER THE TAP

+0.12 s · Touch

The pearl presses and brightens at once; a soft click. Music is queued.

+0.6 s · Pull

The thread is pulled; the strand leaves through the gap and drags the fabric with it.

+1.15 s · Bloom pass

A bud passes the camera and covers the cut while the camera pushes into the paper.

+2.2 s · Welcome

The scene settles from the push; the monogram's thread becomes the heading's thread. Scrolling unlocks.

MATERIALS

White on white, told apart by light

One key light from the top left in every scene. Expensive looks are rendered once in the pipeline; at runtime only position, opacity and small masks move.

Nacre

The signature. Photographed pearls, a highlight that never rotates, blush and sage fringes. Replaces gold.

Cotton-rag paper

The invitation itself. Fibres visible only in raking light; the monogram is blind-debossed and appears when light touches it.

Champagne thread

The concept's object. Tension, one tiny release overshoot, beads that bunch then space. Never a divider or a timeline.

Mogra, bud to bloom

Closed at dawn, open at night, following the page's clock. Always photographed, never drawn.

Chanderi, chikankari

Sheer silk-cotton; its embroidery shows only as a soft shadow on the paper beneath.

Lamp light

The only light at night. It makes pearl text and gold legible and the final strand glow.

ANTI-PATTERNS

Never in Mogra & Moti

OPENINGS

- Curtains, envelopes, wax seals, doors, scratch foil
- A centred hero with names, date and a scroll cue
- Pulsing "tap to open"

IMAGERY

- Stock couples smiling at the camera; AI faces
- Drawn flowers, mandalas, paisleys, palace silhouettes
- Red-and-gold, HDR, gold gradient fills

LAYOUT

- Bordered cards, identical event cards, timelines with dots
- Countdown tiles
- A floating gradient "Get this design" pill

MOTION

- Fade-up on scroll, bounce, scale-in, blur-in
- Petal showers, confetti, sparkles, floating hearts
- Things that move with no visible cause

AFTER PHASE 1

Mogra is strung in the morning and opens by night.

Written in the repository: seven documents in docs/mogra-moti/ — concept, visual DNA, typography, materials, storyboard, asset plan, scene architecture — plus the placeholder data model.

Next, when you say so: Phase 2, project skills that turn these rules into checklists; then Phase 3, Playwright, the asset pipeline and sourcing, with every download listed for your approval first.
